ADULT SETUP

Run the quiet waiting pack

Before you wait

Print one packet per child plus two spare draft pages, then clip the pages in use order: quest starter, choice strip, draft page, extension page, and share card.

Pack sharpened pencils, one small crayon set, sticky notes, a clipboard or folder, and a resealable pouch for loose cards.

Pre-select two quest starters so children can begin quickly without spreading papers across chairs or tables.

Use first names, initials, or simple symbols on folders, and leave private family details off the writing pages.

Tell children they may write, draw, point to choices, or dictate a sentence to an adult helper.

Restaurant table

Wait until ordering is finished, then place one folder, one pencil, and one choice strip beside each child.

Keep food, cups, sauces, and napkins on one side of the table while writing pages stay on the other side.

Choose prompts that need small hand motions: circle, underline, list three words, or write one sentence.

Use a quiet table signal, such as tapping the folder once, to pause writing when meals arrive or the table needs clearing.

Before leaving, tuck every page back into the folder and mark one blank the child can finish later.

Appointment lobby

Choose a seat cluster where one adult can see the folders, pencils, and finished pages without blocking walkways.

Start with a two-minute detail bank: color, shape, object, sound, and quiet action.

Keep voices low by asking children to point to a choice before saying it softly to the adult helper.

Use short page jobs if the wait may end suddenly: title, setting word, helper choice, or one calm sentence.

When it is time to move, close the folder immediately and save sharing for the car, sidewalk, or home table.

Sibling event

Set up one portable folder for the waiting child before the event begins so materials do not need to be sorted in the seats.

Choose a quest that can be completed quietly while another child has a class, lesson, rehearsal, practice, or performance.

Give the waiting child a helper role, such as page captain, detail finder, or ending chooser.

Use the event setting only in broad fictional terms, such as big room, hallway, bench, music, motion, or bright lights.

At the end, invite the sibling to show one drawing or one sentence without interrupting the event wrap-up.

Pickup line

Keep a slim folder, two pencils, and one folded quest page in the front seat pocket or tote bag.

Use the folder during still waiting stretches, and let the child plan orally if writing feels awkward.

Ask for one detail, one choice, and one next action instead of a full draft.

When the line moves or the wait ends, close the folder and let the story continue later.

Routines and share cards

Two-Minute Detail Bank

Best for: Short waits at a table, gate, lobby seat, or pickup line.

1. Adult chooses one quest page and points to the detail bank box.
2. Child silently finds one color, one shape, one object, and one sound nearby.
3. Child writes or sketches the four details in the box with no extra materials.
4. Adult asks the child to choose one detail for the first story sentence.

Folder Open, Folder Closed

Best for: Unpredictable waits where the group may need to move quickly.

1. Adult opens the folder to a single page and keeps every other page clipped behind it.
2. Child completes one small task: circle a choice, write a title, or add one sentence.
3. Adult marks the next blank with a sticky note if the page is not finished.
4. Folder closes as soon as the group needs to move, with pencils returned to the pouch.

Whisper Choice Build

Best for: Quiet spaces where children need adult support but voices should stay low.

1. Adult points to two printed choices and asks the child to choose by tapping the page.
2. Child whispers the choice once or points again if talking feels hard.
3. Adult repeats the choice softly and asks for one matching action word.
4. Child writes the action word or asks the adult to write it in the margin.

Sibling Seat Studio

Best for: Waiting during a sibling activity, homeschool group, class break, or family event.

1. Adult gives the waiting child a folder, pencil, and one page job before the event starts.
2. Child chooses a quiet role: map maker, title finder, detail collector, or ending planner.
3. Adult checks in once halfway through with a thumbs-up, point, or one soft question.
4. Child finishes by circling the line or drawing they want to share later.

Tabletop Story Relay

Best for: Two or more children sharing one table with a parent, grandparent, tutor, or classroom helper.

1. Adult places one shared choice strip in the center and one draft page in front of each child.
2. Each child writes or sketches one setting detail without speaking over the group.
3. Children pass the choice strip clockwise and add one helper or object choice.
4. Adult closes the relay by asking each child to write one next sentence on their own page.

Group share cards

Read one quiet sentence and name the setting detail that helped you write it.

Ask an adult to read one line while you show the matching page mark.

Tell the group one calm action your character takes next.

Point to one sketch or word bank item and tell how it could help the next scene.

Share one title option and ask listeners which word sounds clearest.

Pass today and take the listener role: notice one clear detail from another person's page.

Extension activity menu

10 MINUTES | SETTING SEQUENCE

Seat Map Story Path

Child draws a simple map of the table, row, bench, or gate area, then adds three invented story stops with one calm detail at each stop.

12 MINUTES | STORY STRUCTURE

Quiet Object Sort

Child picks three nearby objects and sorts them into setting detail, helpful item, and ending clue.

8 MINUTES | SENSORY DETAIL

Sound Bank Sketch

Child lists or sketches three soft sounds from the space, then chooses one to place in the story opening.

12 MINUTES | SEQUENCE

Calm Action Ladder

Child writes three small actions a character could take, then numbers them first, next, and last.

8 MINUTES | WORD CHOICE

Menu Word Borrow

At a restaurant table, adult reads five ordinary menu words aloud, and the child borrows one noun and one adjective for a fictional scene.

10 MINUTES | SENTENCE CONNECTION

One-Sentence Relay

Each child writes one sentence, folds the page to show only that line, and passes it to an adult who adds a neutral next-word prompt.

7 MINUTES | MAIN IDEA

Tiny Title Test

Child writes three possible titles on sticky notes and chooses the one that best matches the setting, helper, and ending.

6 MINUTES | REVISION PLANNING

Finish Later Bookmark

Child marks one unfinished blank, writes a next-step word beside it, and slips the page back into the folder for home or class time.

Acorn Avenue Slip Sort

Choose three tiny errand slips, sort them by place, and write the first helpful delivery note.

Point to one real room detail for inspiration, then let the child keep answers short and quiet.

Ages 7-9      3 minutes setup      Quiet one-page writing for a seated lobby wait with an adult nearby and only a pencil on the page.

A clearer direction word I can add is _____.

My final Penny Path sentence is _____.

Save this compass route page to finish a longer Penny Path errand story later.

Margin Note Market Quiet Swap

Turn three vague notes into specific revision tasks for a market stall writer.

If the wait is short, ask the child to finish only the strongest note and save the rest.

Ages 10-11

5 minutes setup

A quiet lobby activity where an adult points to three note choices and the child turns each one into a useful revision task.

Margin Note Market

Market Stall Notes

The Clarity stall receives a note that says _____.

The Detail stall needs one exact example about _____.

The Ending stall asks the writer to check _____.

Make Feedback Useful

A vague note I can replace is _____.

My specific revision task says _____.

The writer should try this first because _____.

Next Draft Plan

The market stall I would visit next is _____.

One sentence that needs a stronger detail is _____.

The calm note I would hand back says _____.

Save this market page to finish the remaining note swaps at home or during another quiet wait.

Clue Label Tower Gate Gallery

Choose three exhibit objects and write one clear label that tells visitors what to notice.

Invite the child to use nearby safe objects as inspiration while staying seated.

Ages 10-11      6 minutes setup      A quiet gate-seat activity where an adult sets one printed page on a folder and the child writes exhibit labels from everyday-object clues.

Clue Label Tower Museum

Gallery Object Picks

The first exhibit object is _____.

The clue visitors should notice is _____.

A distracting detail I will leave out is _____.

One-Sentence Labels

Label one should explain _____.

Label three becomes clearer when I add _____.

Curator Finish

The label drawer I would open next is _____.

The clearest museum word on my page is _____.

My final exhibit label says _____.

Save this gallery page so the final exhibit label can become a short museum story.

Index Card Theater Seat-Row Cues

Arrange the beginning, turn, and finish cues, then write the narrator's quiet closing line.

Give each child a turn choosing a cue, then keep the finished page in the folder if the wait ends.

Ages 10-11

5 minutes setup

A quiet adult-guided sibling activity where children stay seated, point to cue choices, and write stage-card lines on one page.

Index Card Theater Club
